Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Studies in Diderot s Esthetic Naturalism As intimated in the introductory chapter, this work is part of a larger one devoted to the study of Diderot s naturalism as exemplified in his general esthetic as well as to his theories concerning the arts of music, dancing, drama, acting, painting, sculpture and architecture. The writer wishes to express his heartfelt thanks to Professor Dino Bigongiari without whose encouragement and advice this work would not have been written; to Professors Fernand Baldensperger and Anatole Le Braz, who guided him in the preliminary stages; to Professors Henri Chamard, Raymond Weeks, John Lawrence Craig, Robert Herndon Fife, Charles Sears Baldwin, Andre Morize. to whom he is indebted for criticism or information. Professor Frank Wadleigh Chandler has read and improved an early redaction of the chapter on Acting and Historical Tragedy, while Professor Henry Alfred Todd has made certain helpful suggestions- ad majorem auctoris gloriam. Thanks are also due Miss Dollie Booth Hepburn, Mr. Frederic W. Erb and other members of the staff of Columbia University Library, who in various ways...
