TASTE THIS MAGIC PEACH: AN EDUCATOR S LIFE IN CHINA DURING THE NATIONALIST REVOLUTION

Tate Publishing Enterprises, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 208 x 132 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .In language class we had learned that Chinese proverb, He who rides a tiger cannot dismount. Had my husband and I unwittingly mounted a tiger? Could we ride it? I looked at him beside me--so strong and unafraid. December, 1926: a time of great uncertainty weighed heavily on the Chinese city of Foochow. Against a backdrop of rumored armies, ambitious political leaders, and rebellious students, and amidst the creation of a new China, Ralph and Elizabeth Shrader arrived in China as missionaries and educators. With the help of other British and American missionaries, the Shraders began to build a life in Foochow. They had been planning for years to make this great adventure, despite the bewilderment they faced from family and friends. Ralph had a passion for reaching students and tearing down the wall of isolationism; Elizabeth s mind wasn t quite as made up. But ultimately, they heeded the call. Over the next five years, their lives would change dramatically. Two children would be born abroad. A myriad of students, home workers, and townspeople would come and go through their lives, each changing their perspectives and showing them the potential and the danger of the maturing tiger--China. In this adaptation of Elizabeth s journal from her time in China, her son, William Whitney Shrader, tells the story of their times. This compelling saga is more than the story of missionaries. It s the story of a country coming into its own. Magic Peach is a magical journey to early 20th century China, when the slumbering dragon awoke with a vision that shakes the world to this day. Dr. Bill Brown Prof. of MBA, Xiamen University...
