Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the United Nations Education, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). GAO found that: (1) the United States withdrew from UNESCO in December 1984, stating that UNESCO was mismanaged, budget growth was out of control, and programs were politically biased; (2) the UNESCO General Conference, which makes policy for UNESCO, has adopted resolutions for management reform based on UNESCO Executive Board recommendations; (3) UNESCO directors are exercising their delegated authorities concerning personnel and funding; (4) UNESCO has taken steps towards decentralization by collecting information on field offices needs and resources and strengthening their management by providing them with financial training and additional authority; (5) to ensure accountability, UNESCO has expanded the Inspector General's role, increased his staff and required field and headquarters administrative officers to report to the Deputy Director General for Management; (6) UNESCO has begun to narrow the focus of its work and to plan its activities more effectively, but program plans rarely specify the expected impact of programs or include quantitative indicators for measuring success; (7) UNESCO has introduced such personnel system reforms as a staff appraisal system based on job performance and reassessment of its job positions and salary grades to conform with International Civil Service Commission standards; (8) since 1988, UNESCO has reduced the real growth rate of its regular budgets, and its budget presentation has become clearer; and (9) UNESCO generally complies with its financial management regulations.
